Re: Comment Upon Proposed Modifications to Section 1397.2 of Title 16 of California Code of Regulations

Dear Ms. Kassis:

This office represents licensed professionals in disciplinary investigations and proceedings. This office also represents many licensed professionals in criminal investigations and proceedings. We are often called upon to provide advice and counsel regarding the collateral consequences of the proposed resolution of a criminal action.

The proposed modification to the text of section 1397.2 of Division 13.1 of Title 16 of the California Code of Regulations in subdivision (d)(1) provides that it is unprofessional conduct if a licensee fails to report to the Board within 30 days "...the conviction of the licensee or registrant including a verdict of guilty, or pleas of guilty or no contest, of any felony or misdemeanor."

As a practitioner advising professional licensees I find the description of a conviction contained in the proposed modification to the text of section 1397.2 to be confusing and inconsistent with other law regulating licensees and registrants before the Board of Psychology.

The proposed modification to section 1397.2 makes it an act of unprofessional conduct to fail to report a conviction, but describes a conviction in effect to include a plea of no contest to any felony or misdemeanor. This is inconsistent with other professional licensing schemes and, in particular, the statutes which regulate persons licensed by the Board. For example, Title 16, section 1381.7 requires that an applicant for renewal of a license or registration disclose a conviction of any violation of the law in this or any other state except for specified minor traffic infractions. It does not otherwise define "conviction" which is a term defined in other relevant statutes regulating those licensed or registered by the Board.

For example, Business and Professions Code section 480 subdivision (a)(1) defines a conviction to be: "...a plea or verdict of guilt or a conviction following a plea of nolo contendere." Chapter 6.6 of division 2 of the Business and Professions Code sets out the specific statutory provisions pertinent to psychologists. Business and Professions Code section 2963 defines a conviction in pertinent part as: “A plea or verdict of guilt or a conviction following a plea of nolo contendere made to a charge which is substantially related to the qualifications, functions and duties of a psychologist or psychological assistant is deemed to be a conviction within the meaning of this article.” The article referenced is Article 4, which sets out the statutes pertinent to denial, suspension and revocation of licenses and registrations before the Board.

As the term conviction is elsewhere defined within the statutes regulating the practice of psychology, it would seem that the proposed modification to section 1397.2 subdivision (d)(1) should be modified to read: “The conviction of the licensee or registrant of any felony or misdemeanor.” There is no need to define a conviction within the regulation where that term of art has been defined by relevant statutes as set out above. Each of the statutes above-referenced requires that a no contest plea be followed by a conviction. The proposed modification to section 1397.2 subdivision (d)(1) is inconsistent with those statutes to the extent that it includes within a conviction a plea of no contest without specifying that it must be followed by a conviction, as is statutorily required.

If the proposed modification to the language of section 1397.2 were adopted, it would create confusion and would impermissibly conflict with controlling statutory authority.

I appreciate the opportunity to comment upon this proposed regulation.

Very truly yours,

M. BRADLEY WISHEK
